GENERAL PLAN AMENDMENT NO. 2006-05

REVISIONS TO THE RECREATION ELEMENT OF THE GENERAL PLAN IN CONNECTION WITH THE ADOPTION OF THE DOWNTOWN SPECIFIC PLAN

The Downtown Specific Plan is an urban design oriented plan which sets the physical standards and guidelines as well as land use regulations for activities within the Downtown. Downtown Glendale consists of a variety of districts, based on the existing building patterns within each area. The Downtown Specific Plan seeks to preserve and enhance the aspects which provide each district its unique character, while improving the attractiveness and livability of the Downtown area as a whole.

In order to provide consistency between the Zoning Ordinance and the General Plan, the Recreation Element is hereby amended as follows:

Chapter 2 – Introduction, 2.7 Relationship to and Consistency with the General Plan and Other Plans, Policies and Programs, page 5

Greater Downtown Strategic Plan and the Downtown Specific Plan

The City of Glendale and the Glendale Partners initiated the preparation of the Greater Downtown Strategic Plan (CDSP) in the Spring of 1994. They each believed it would be timely to focus attention on the stabilization and future direction of the city's Greater Downtown Area. This document, after a decade of increasingly rapid change is being put forth as a guiding vision and policy framework for the future of downtown Glendale. Its intent is to ensure the quality of life in Glendale over the next 25 years.

This mission statement is consistent with the policies of Glendale's General Plan and the Recreation Element directly supports the implementation of many of the visions which the Greater Downtown Strategic Plan addresses. During the preparation of this plan the findings of the Analysis Phase culminated in a set of seven principles to guide the development of the plan. The Recreation Element is consistent with these seven principles and principles four and five are complimentary to the Recreation Element.

- Recognize that Downtown Glendale is composed of neighborhood units and adopt a neighborhood structure.
- Expand the open space system and allocation of land for public and community services uses throughout the Downtown and establish a hierarchy for the public realm of the roles of the neighborhoods and districts.

The GDSP was undertaken to insure that present and future leaders of Glendale have a vision which will allow them to stay ahead of the development process of the city and its infrastructure. In this way, as Glendale develops it will not only maintain but improve the quality of life for its citizens. In addition, its business community will be provided with a climate and structure wherein its members will continue to thrive and flourish.

The programs in the implementation plan of the GDSP encourage the development of a pedestrian environment and an urban form closer identified with a neighborhood structure. The streetscape improvements and open space acquisitions will provide both the day time population and immediate residents passive recreation opportunities and an improvement of their quality of life. The Town Center improvements will provide Glendale additional recreation facilities that will benefit the whole city.

The Downtown Specific Plan (DSP) was adopted in 2006. The DSP is designed to implement the vision, goals and policies of the Greater Downtown Strategic Plan, which includes the downtown and adjacent neighborhoods. In case any inconsistencies are identified between the two plans, the DSP shall prevail.
