

Flood Control Fire-Related Sediment Hauling

LOS ANGELES COUNTY DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS

NOTICE

In preparation for winter storms, LA County Public Works will be hauling sediment from various flood and debris control facilities affected by the 2017 La Tuna Fire to the Dunsmuir Sediment Placement Site (SPS) in the city of Glendale. Dunsmuir SPS is an engineered regional site that has been used by the County to deposit sediment since the 1950s.

Flood and debris control facilities, located below burned areas, will require ongoing maintenance during this storm season. An initial sediment and debris haul is planned between October 2 and November 17, 2017. It is critical to restore the capacity of these facilities to ensure they continue to provide increased protection for downhill communities. You may experience a visible County presence and truck traffic near Dunsmuir SPS throughout the storm season if additional cleanouts and hauling operations are necessary.

HOURS/DAYS

County crews will work from 7 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, and on Saturdays as needed during the storm season.

TRUCK HAUL ROUTES

Trucks will follow the route shown on the map on the back of this flyer. The County will apply several best management practices along the haul route and at Dunsmuir SPS to control dust during hauling activities, including the use of water trucks and street sweepers. Additionally, traffic flaggers and information signs will be used as needed to maintain traffic flow and safety along the haul route shown on the map.

RESIDENT SUPPORT

It is important that County crews have unobstructed access to Dunsmuir SPS. Residents in the area are asked to avoid parking vehicles or storing materials on streets near Dunsmuir SPS during hauling operations. *Parking restrictions (if necessary) will be posted 48 hours in advance.
