John McDonald Huell Howser's Lost California's Gold Episode

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 7, 7 PM
DOWNTOWN CENTRAL AUDITORIUM

In 2010, the late, great television personality Huell Howser telephoned filmmaker John McDonald to make an unprecedented request. Howser had seen McDonald's documentary, The Ghost Mountain Experiment, a story about a family who lived off the grid for seventeen years in San Diego County's Anza-Borrego Desert, considered this story to be quintessential California's gold and wanted to make an episode based both on the Souths and on McDonald's fine documentary. Due to Howser's unexpected illness and untimely death as well as the cancellation of California's Gold, Howser instead gave McDonald the unedited video master of this episode. McDonald completed the editing of Huell's work and he will share with us this last nugget of California's Gold!
