RE: 1369 RAYMOND AVENUE
ADMINISTRATIVE EXCEPTION CASE NO. PAE 1420910

Dear Ms. Balian:

Pursuant to the provisions of the Glendale Municipal Code, Chapter 30.44.020 (G), the Community Development Department has processed your application for an Administrative Exception to allow a rooftop duct on an existing single family residence in the in the "R 1 I" - (Low Density Residential) Zone, Floor Area District I, on the subject property at 1369 Raymond Avenue, and described as Lot 49, Tract No. 4951, in the City of Glendale, County of Los Angeles.

ENVIRONMENTAL RECOMMENDATION: This project is exempt from environmental review as a Class 1 "Existing Facility" exemption (Section 15301 (e) (1) of the State CEQA Guidelines).

REQUIRED/MANDATED FINDINGS

After thorough consideration of the statements contained in the application and the plans submitted, the Hearing Officer has GRANTED WITH CONDITIONS your application based on the following:

- A. The granting of the exception will result in design improvements, or there are space restrictions on the site that preclude full compliance with the Code requirements without hardship.

Granting the exception would be appropriate because there are space restrictions on the site that would preclude full compliance with code requirements without hardship. The existing den at the rear of the house has a flat roof with no attic or crawl space. The proposed ducting will run from this location to the new furnace in the attic inside the pitched-roof at the front of the house. The flat roof of the den restricts location options for ducting from the new furnace to heat the den. The duct will be less than 5 feet long, approximately 1 foot tall. It is the smallest and shortest possible distance for the run of the supply duct and still provide heat to the den.

The applicant recently removed existing rooftop air conditioning equipment and ducting when they were made aware that it had been installed without permits. A ground-mounted air conditioner was installed beside the house and a new furnace was installed in the attic of the pitched-roof portion of the house. The house and den are being re-roofed to eliminate leaks that have developed.

B. The granting of the exception will not be materially detrimental to the public welfare or injurious to the property or improvements in such zone or neighborhood in which the property is located.

The combination of the location of the proposed duct behind the pitched roof, its short length and low height, will ensure that the ducting will be largely invisible from public view. The duct is also near the center of the flat roof, further screening it from view from ground level. The pitched roof at the front of the house, the existing chimney between the den and the house, and the pitched roof of the neighboring house and garage to the south, all combine to block the view of the proposed duct from Raymond Avenue. The view of the duct will also be screened from ground level on the alley north of the site by the property line wall running along the alley. Additionally, a condition has been added to the project to paint the ducting to match the roof materials. As such, the project will not be detrimental to the public welfare or injurious to the property or improvements in the zone.

C. The granting of the exception will not be contrary to the objectives of the applicable regulations.

Granting the exception will not be contrary to the objectives of the applicable regulations because the intent of the R1 zone standards is to protect the community from the adverse effects of poor design and encourage high quality development. The proposed duct is the shortest and lowest design possible to provide heat to the den from the new furnace in the attic of the home. The den has a flat roof, restricting the options available to the applicant for providing heat to the den. The ducting will not be visible from Raymond Avenue.

APPROVAL of this Administrative Exception shall be subject to the following conditions:
