Deukmejian Wilderness Park

3429 Markridge Road, Glendale, CA 91214

That was the fateful phrase spoken by Commander Jim Lovell exactly 49 years ago today, a phrase that has universally become synonymous with the word, “Whoops.” At Deukmejian Wilderness Park, we have problems too, although not the life-or-death kind faced by those three astronaut heroes.

Still, we’ve got trees to water, invasive plants to remove, and trails to maintain. So join us for your own “open space” adventure. We have tasks for all ages and abilities. This is a great event for families, individuals, church groups, clubs, and students needing Community Service hours.

This event is FREE!!! But groups of 10 or more must reserve their place by calling us at (818) 548-3795.
